

NO OBJECTION TO S. D. & E. PETITION TO QUIT

SIMPLICITY
AT FUNERAL
OF COMMONERBrief Remarks, Hymns
and Scripture Reading Mark Rites

Washington, July 31—(AP)—High above the little brick church where mourning relatives and friends gathered today to say their last farewell to William J. Bryan, flags fluttered at half staff from the great government buildings, to mark the nation's formal tribute to the Commoner.

The drooping colors spoke of the service he had given to the flag as a soldier, statesman and legislator; the solemn religious services in the church and at the grave were keyed to recount his valorous championship in public and private life of the gospel of peace on earth and good will toward men.

There were many hours of the simple rites of the faith he cherished so stoutly, of the slow, solemn passing beside his tier of humble folk, or mourning for Bryan, the plain citizen, the Commoner, before comrades of the regular army received the casket to pay last honors in Arlington National Cemetery to Bryan, the soldier and public servant.

Commoner to the Last

Again, as on yesterday, the fallen veteran of so many stirring conflicts of national life lent the solemn state of death in the house of God, wherein his devout lips had often led in prayer. Again the clustering hundreds thronged the aisles to glimpse a moment the still, peaceful face. There were none to deny them; no rank of dignitaries to intrude on this last hour of the plain people with the man whose proudest boast was his championship of their causes, great or small.

He was by his own will and the word of the Commoner to the last. He lay with only volunteer comrades, apart from the throngs that passed to look upon him only by death, and the testimony those slow moving hundreds gave more plainly than words of the place he had made for himself in the life of the nation.

It was for this reason and to await the coming of the last members of the family circle that Mrs. Bryan deferred her own funeral until the public had had his last moments to honor the dead. For that parting she chose the sacred privacy of the little church where the casket had lain since a short time after its arrival from Tennessee early yesterday.

Widow Arranged Service

Still bearing up bravely under the double burden of her great and sudden grief, and the heavy afflictions she has known so many years, Mrs. Bryan found the strength to arrange with her religious friends and the circle of close friends of her dear husband the last details of the services. It was by her wish that the brief Presbyterian funeral service, arranged by the Rev. J. R. Sizoo, pastor of the church, was expanded to include Bible passages that the dead man prized above all others. It was she who told of the hymns that had brought him comfort and peace in the long, arduous years of their companionship.

"Lead, kindly light, amid the encircling gloom,"

"Lead thou me on,"

"The night is dark, and I am far from home,"

"Lead thou me on,"

"Hosanna in Excelsis,"

Mr. Bryan found his greatest peace in the solemnly uplifting faith of the old hymn, and it was his desire that it should be sung when he had passed to his long sleep. This it was that the strains of this hymn, led by the deep voice of a great pipe organ and sung by a mixed choir from the left above, were selected to usher in the simple and impressive service for the dead.

Another old hymn dear to her husband's heart came next in the order of service. Mrs. Bryan had approved. It was "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and the passage selected by Dr. Sizoo for the opening of the religious rites was "I am the resurrection and the life," the foundation stone of Christian faith.

Passages of Scripture

Among the Bible passages indicated by Mrs. Bryan as her husband's sources of greatest comfort and which Dr. Sizoo included in the service was the 23rd psalm:

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil for thou art with me."

There were also passages from the 96th psalm:

"Lord thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations," and again that triumphant cry from Corinthians, "Oh death, where is thy victory? Oh grave, where is thy victory?"

Again the minister had placed that other comforting assurance of the Railway Push Car is Emergency Table for Operation on Worker

Morris, Ill., July 31—(AP)—An emergency operation in which a railway push car was used as an operating table and track workers as assistants, was performed by Dr. F. A. Stockdale and probably saved the life of Otis Laborano, an employee of the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway. The injured man and another had been caught under a tank weighing six tons.

Seeing the man was bleeding to death, the doctor stopped the push car, got out his instruments and amputated Laborano's leg. The doctor then set a broken leg for Andrew O'Brien, the other injured man and sent both to a Joliet hospital.

The tank collapsed while workers were replacing timbers under it.

LOONEY IS GUILTY;
PRISON TERM ONE-
FIVE YEARS IS GIVENJnudge Also Sends Him to Jail 60 Days for Contempt

Court Room, Rock Island, Ill., July 31—(AP)—John P. Looney, pictured as the man who for years ruled organized vice in Rock Island with a wave of his hand, until public sentiment, thoroughly aroused by the Rock Island Argus, brought about a cleanup through which he was shorn of his mysterious power, today stands convicted of a crime and sentenced to the penitentiary, for the first time in his life. He was found guilty this morning of conspiracy to protect gambling on one of ten indictments returned against him in 1922.

One of the remaining nine indictments charges him with the murder of William Gabel, saloon keeper, who was slain July 31, 1922, just three years ago today.

It was Gabel's murder which precipitated the cleanup campaign, that resulted in the overthrow of vice and gang rule, and brought about the conviction of three city officials, who were linked with Looney in the protection of his illicit traffic.

Jury Out All Night

The jury was given the case yesterday afternoon, and its verdict of guilty which was returned when court convened at 9 o'clock this morning, marked the close of one of the most sensational trials in Illinois, in which the prosecution was in charge of the office of the attorney general of the state. The trial began June 29, several days being taken up with the selection of a jury.

In finding Looney guilty, the jurors placed his punishment at one to five years imprisonment with no fine. Looney accepted his fate with unexpected calm, though visibly affected. His daughter, Mrs. Ursula Hamblen, who has been constantly at her father's side, broke down as the full import of the verdict dawned on her.

Sentenced for Contempt

Attorney W. C. Allen, chief counsel of the defense, indicated that he would ask for a new trial.

Following Looney's conviction on the conspiracy charge, he was cited for contempt of court, found guilty and sent to the county jail for 60 days by Judge N. A. Larson, who charged that the defendant's conduct during the trial had "tended to lessen the authority of the court."

He mentioned particularly the gun episode, when a loaded revolver was found on Looney's person after he had wrestled with a bailiff. During the remainder of the trial Looney had been searched every time he entered the court room.

ALDERMEN STAYED
AWAY FROM MEETS;
NOW UNDER ARRESTCharged With Omission of Duty; Row Over
Police Cause

Alton, Ill., July 31—(AP)—Warrants, issued yesterday by Justice Dale at Edwardsville charging W. A. Hale, R. E. Ford and R. P. Thompson with omission of official duty in failing to attend meetings of the village board, thereby preventing the presence of a quorum to transact business, were served and three members of the village board of East Alton were taken to Edwardsville where bond of $500 was given for their appearance at a preliminary examination.

Friends of the absenting aldermen have said they remained away because the majority—with the mayor voting—forestalled any effort they made in the council.

After the return of the accused members of the village board last night, W. A. Hale, one of the three, said that so far as he was concerned there was no agreement to prevent a quorum. He said that he stayed away from the meetings as a protest. He was dissatisfied, he said, with the way the village affairs were being conducted. "The village of East Alton," he said, "is not wealthy and must be careful in spending its money. For some time the village had been maintaining two policemen and they have been devoting their time to policing the country districts outside of the village, making raids there instead of staying in town and policing the town. When Chief Haws resigned they wanted to appoint another man in his place and I was not satisfied so I did not go to the meetings."

Will Deny Conspiracy

It is understood that all three of the village trustees will deny there was any conspiracy to prevent the having of a quorum in the village board.

President Sanders had the warrants issued by authority of State's Attorney J. R. Brown. The offense, if cases were made out against the village board members, would call for a penalty of not more than $1,000 fine and removal from office.

Asked whether he would attend the meeting of the village board the next time one is set, Mr. Hale said that he was not ready to say as he did not know what the circumstances might be.

There is no doubt that, if the meeting is held, the village president, Mr. Sanders, will have his way and will be able to appoint a man to take the place of Charles Haws who resigned as police chief, as he has three votes and can cast the deciding vote himself.

Rain Brings Relief to Dry
Pastures, Fields

The first real rain in a month brought relief to dry pastures and thirsty potatoes and corn Thursday afternoon and evening through the night, a total of 1.75 inches of water falling between 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon and 6 o'clock this morning. The rain was worth millions of dollars to crops of this section, farmers declare.

The last previous rain of any consequence here was recorded by the government gauge at the Arvene H. Lord residence on July 7, when a little over half an inch of water fell. During the month, up until yesterday, not more than a total of one inch of water had fallen.

Army Pursuit Planes are

Forced Down at Cordova

BULLETIN

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—Five army pursuit planes, on a trans-continental test flight, which made a successful emergency landing at Cordova, Ill., reached Chicago on their return trip at 11:20 a. m. today. One of the six ships on the trip was forced down at Des Moines, Iowa.

Lieut. Russell Minty escaped injury in the sudden descent at Des Moines but the plane was damaged. Major Lanphier, in command, said he had not been advised as the cause of Minty's trouble, but said probably motor trouble was responsible.

The able handling of the five planes at Cordova, 150 miles west of Chicago, designated as an emergency air mail landing spot, was made as dawn was breaking. Major Lanphier said, and although it was light enough to avoid ordinary dangers, the fog was so thick it was the part of safety to land.

The six pursuit planes, which took off from Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., on July 29 for the test trip to the Pacific Coast and return, were on the wing all night on the Cheyenne-Chicago night air mail route.

The tired pilots on arrival here were in need of rest and Major Lanphier planned to remain here today.

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—The six army pursuit planes attempting a Cheyenne-Chicago flight at night, which left Omaha at 3:50 a. m., were forced down by unfavorable weather at the Cordova, Ill., emergency air mail landing field.

The planes from Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., which are completing a survey of the military possibilities of the trans-continental air mail route, left Cheyenne at 6:55 p. m. last night and arrived at Omaha, near midnight. They left Omaha an hour later.

East of Iowa City they struck driving rains, which finally forced them down at Cordova, 150 miles west of Maywood Field, here, and near Rock Island.

Rockford—Operatives of the Chicago bureau of the United States secret service are in Rockford to investigate the arrest here Wednesday of Sam Monisto, alias "Big" Chicago Italian, on a charge of "cashing" a $20 counterfeit gold certificate at the Mackie dry goods store.

Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. Nash swore to a warrant for Monisto's arrest on a charge of uttering and trying to pass a counterfeit $20 bill and Justice E. V. Rohlen placed bond at $5,000. Monisto was being held in the city jail today in default of bond.

Fails Second Bill

While sweeping a hallway adjoining the police desk sergeant's office at city hall, Motorcycle Officer Folke Bengtson found a crumpled $20 counterfeit bill which Monisto is believed to have thrown on the floor while being taken into the police station yesterday.

Nip Counterfeit Plot

Local officers believe that they prevented the flooding of Rockford merchants with spurious paper money and nipped a counterfeit ring at the start in the arrest of Monisto by Policeman Robert Marston soon after Monisto had "cashed" a $20 bill at the Mackie dry goods store.

UNIVERSITY AS

PLAN OF DAYTON

Promoters Get Much

Encouragement in

Their Proposal

Dayton, Tenn., July 31—(AP)—Dayton and Rhea County are organizing to give adequate expression to their tribute to William J. Bryan. Their hope of establishing here a great University as a memorial to the Commoner has been much inspired and encouraged during the last few eventful days by the arrival of scores of letters and telegrams from many parts of the country, volunteering financial assistance to such an enterprise and insisting that opportunity for such contributions be given.

While details of any plans in mind have been withheld prior to the last rites in Arlington today, they are known to include handsome appropriations by both city and county, all plans of course to be subject to the approval of Mrs. Bryan.

The leader's preference for Dayton as the site for the college are known to have been firmly expressed. He not only made trips of inspection to the proposed college site, but had negotiated for the purchase of a lot near the Richard Rogers home on which he intended building a residence.

Last Friday about 45 hours before Mr. Bryan's death, he inspected a large hill as the site for the college and this may be the site chosen.

Milk Prices Up One Cent, Consumers of Dixon are Notified

Dixon milk consumers awoke this morning to find a little surprise awaiting them in the form of a notice, left with the morning's bottle of milk, that an advance of one cent per quart is now effective. The new prices, it is stated, are eleven cents per quart, six cents per pint and thirteen cents for a half-pint of cream.

The Borden Co. also announced higher prices effective tomorrow, when the company will begin paying $2.20 per hundred for milk testing 4 per cent butter fat, direct ratio. The long dry period, which caused a shortage of pasturage, is said to have brought about the increase.

LOOT OF BANDITS
WHO ROBBED DRAKE
LESS THAN $3,000Chicago Bar Assn. in Move to Drive Bad Men
From City

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—The spectacular daylight holdup of the fashionable Drake Hotel in which two robbers and a hotel cashier were killed and two robbers captured, netted less than $3,000 to the fifth robber who is still at large.

But the indictment of the three lively robbers for murder and speedy preparations for their trial and the launching of a concerted drive against criminals by the Chicago Bar Association were almost immediate results.

While Joseph Holmes and Jack Wilson, alias Woods, were examined by state attorneys to forestall an insanity defense and police sought William Mullenbach, alias William Nugent, who escaped with the loot, the bar association took steps against delays in bringing criminals to trial.

The attorneys' organization established a group of 400 of its members, the best legal minds in Chicago, to aid the state in prosecution.

Deny Murder Charge

Less than 24 hours after they had terrorized hundreds of guests and employees of the exclusive hotel and turned its lobbies and Chicago's gold coast into a bloody battle ground, Holmes and Wilson were indicted, assigned and entered pleas of not guilty to killing Frank Rodkey, assistant cashier. Both confessed their parts in the robbery and said they would have pleaded guilty to robbery charges.

Inquests have been started over the bodies of Ted (Tex) Cortis or Court, half breed Cherokee Texas Cowboy, and Eric Nelson, former Drake employee, the slain robbers. The Indian was killed in the affray which followed the holdup and Nelson died after a taxicab chase over six miles of north side boulevards.

$700 of Loot Recovered

About $700 of the loot, which was first thought to total $10,000 was recovered after the arrest, early yesterday, of Wilson. He and Mullenbach had fled with it and later divided it, and separated. Wilson going to a hospital for treatment for a wounded hand. He was arrested there.

Possible connection with the robber crew of Robert Scott, brother of Russell who is under a death sentence for killing a drug clerk in a holdup, was seen when a card signed R. Scott was found in Wilson's coat. Robert Scott has been hunted since an indictment with his brother for the killing of the clerk for which Russell has twice come within a few hours of hanging.

Early Settler of Dixon

Mrs. Eliza Burnside, for many years a resident of this community, passed away at the home of her niece, Mrs. Mary Miller Nevine of Peoria Thursday morning, details of her last sickness not having been learned by Dixon friends. The remains will be brought to Dixon for burial in Oakwood cemetery, the funeral services to be held at the Preston chapel Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. L. W. Walter of St. Paul's Lutheran church will officiate. An obituary of this early settler will be published later.

The cow became frightened and ran across the field dragging the lad a quarter of a mile before he could be rescued.

OPERATION OF
LINE TO STOP
IN FEW DAYS?Cities to be Given Salvage for Tearing up Tracks

The hearing on the petition of the Sterling, Dixon & Eastern railway to cease operation of their Sterling and Dixon city lines as well as the inter-urban line between the two cities, was held at the court house before Judge James Clark of Bloomington this morning. Miss Kate B. Brown of Chicago, reported the proceeding. The supervisors' room was crowded when the hearing opened at 10 o'clock and continued without a recess until the noon hour. At the close, representatives of both cities were satisfied with the agreement with Vice President M. D. Alexander and it was apparent that the operation of the company lines would doubtless cease at an early date.

Vice President Alexander agreed with representatives of both cities to give to them the salvage of the overhead structure, consisting chiefly of copper trolley wires and connections, outside of the poles which must in necessity remain in service because of carrying other service, in exchange of the cost of removal. The cities are also to have the steel rails, which they will be required to remove together with the ties.

The railway company was represented by Attorney Henry B. Dixon of this city. W. E. Long, member of the city council and Harold Ward, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Sterling, appeared for the cities. In opening, Vice President Alexander stated that the company would remove none of the rails or ties in either Dixon or Sterling. In his statement he said that it was the original plan to remove all overhead structure rails and ties, but a condition has arisen which has shown that the expense was vastly greater than the amount of salvage in removing the ties and rails.

Will Give Cities Salvage

In the cases of both cities, representatives objected to the condition of the streets where lines are removed. Vice President M. D. Alexander was the first witness to testify before the commissioner and stated emphatically that the company would remove none of the rails or ties in either Dixon or Sterling. In his statement he said that it was the original plan to remove all overhead structure rails and ties, but a condition has arisen which has shown that the expense was vastly greater than the amount of salvage in removing the ties and rails.

In opening, Vice President Alexander stated that the company was organized August 18, 1902, and began operation of its lines about the spring of 1904, operating approximately 17 miles of track. In cross-examination, conducted by City Attorney E. E. Wingert of this city, the vice president stated that the Illinois Northern Utilities company and the S. D. & E. were separate corporations. The question of removing ties and rails appeared to be the most important of the entire hearing. Mr. Alexander stated that in many cities of Illinois and Wisconsin, ties and rails had been left where service had been discontinued and abandoned. He stated that the company would remove neither rails or ties in either of the cities because of the cost entailed in this operation.

5-Year Deficit $216,754

L. E. Jacobsen, assistant treasurer of the company, presented several exhibits showing the cost of operation since the company was organized, the income and deficits. The total income of the company from the years 1919 to 1924, inclusive, and the first six months of 1925, he testified, amounted to $400,558.83 with operating expenses totalling $469,049.18. Taking into consideration all deductions including interest and rental the total deficit shown was $216,734.51, not counting depreciation in any year.

"How has the company met this amount of deficit?" City Attorney Wingert asked of the witness upon cross examination.

"The deficit has not been met," was the answer.

Attorney Dixon objected to the questioning stating that the company was hopelessly insolvent. The objection was sustained by the commissioner who ordered the question out of the record.

"Has the amount of deficit been met?"

"It has not," Mr. Jacobsen answered.

"Has the property suffered as the result of that deficit?" the commissioner inquired.

At this point Attorney Dixon stated that the balance shown by the company's records amounted to $1,155,451.

Vice President Alexander also made a statement for the benefit of the objectors at this point as said:

Wheat Trading Today
Chicago, July 31.—(AP)—Speculators paid dearly today for the privilege of feeling wheat without having first got actual ownership. Before they could settle July accounts wheat available for July delivery here went soaring nine cents above yesterday's close and touched 1.66 a bushel.
Highest prices for the day for July wheat were reached in the very last minute of trading, but for nearly an hour previous the market had hovered at within 10 of the apex.
The flurry began in earnest during the final hour and reached the climax just as the closing gongs drove the brokers from the pit.

DONT MOPE—SMILE—

The world knows but little of failures and cares less. The world watches only successes.

Stop worrying over things that can't be helped, and go and do things that can be done.

Few people care a continental for your failure. Few, if any, will help.

Self pity, sympathy-seeking, wishing and walling will only let you lower down. Brace up. Brush up. Think up. And you will get up. Think down, look down, act down, and you will stay down.

Paint your face with a smile. Advertise that you are a success. Then think and work for it.

Whatever you think you are worth, is the price they will pay.—The Silent Partner.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Use Brown Bread.
Peanut butter sandwiches are much more delicious if made with brown bread.

For Economy.
Cream that is whipped will go much further with a dessert than if you serve plain cream.

As a Dessert.
In England and France, griddle cakes are served as dessert, rolled into thin shapes and spread with sugar or jelly.

They Won't Stick.
Puddings will not stick to molds that have been wet and are well chilled when the contents are added.

MRS. ANDRUS TO SPEND WINTER IN ENGLAND AND NORTH AFRICA—

Dixon friends learn that Mrs. E. M. Andrus of Portland, Oregon, will sail in a week or so, on the ship, "The Noorderdyk," of the Holland-American line, via the Panama Canal, to England, where she will meet Miss Lucia Morris, daughter of the late George Morris, and they expect to spend the winter in Europe and North Africa.

Mrs. Andrus expressed pleasure at the prospect of seeing Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leake, who are enjoying the tour on the Knight Templar special, and she also expressed regret that more of her Dixon friends were not with Mr. and Mrs. Leake.

MISS ANDREAS TO APPEAR WITH KOCH—

Miss Dora Andreas of Sterling, popular contralto singer, will sing next Sunday afternoon and evening in Dixon. She will assist Arthur Koch, world's famous pianist. Miss Andreas has been with a chautauqua musical company for several years. Mr. Koch appeared in this city, giving a concert at a theater here last February.

MODERN EDUCATION
Our modern school systems put a lot of work upon growing eyes which puts a strain upon those with defective vision. Latent defects in the eyes of children should be carefully looked after. A little foresight now may keep them from wearing glasses later and will help them in their studies. Let us examine their eyes.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—
Blueberries with cream, cereal, thin cream, soft cooked eggs, toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—
Creamed kohlrabi, brown bread and cheese sandwiches, baked apple pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Baked bluefish, baked potatoes, buttered beets, cucumber salad, steamed blueberry pudding, rye bread, milk, coffee.

Steamed Blueberry Pudding.
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup blueberries, 2 more tablespoons flour.

Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar. Rub in butter with tips of fingers. Beat egg and cut into flour. Cut in milk. Sift extra flour over berries and add to dough. Turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam 1 1/2 hours. Serve with molasses sauce.

Miscellaneous Shower Was Held

Last evening a company of friends tendered a surprise miscellaneous shower to a charming young bride of recent date, Mrs. George Aschenbrenner, formerly Miss Mary Anne Curran. Twenty or more girl friends gathered at the home of the aunt of Mrs. Aschenbrenner, Mrs. Dan Blackburn, at the corner of Second street and Monroe avenue and surprised her completely. The Blackburn home was daintily decorated in yellow and white, and garden flowers.

A very happy evening was spent, the bride receiving many nice presents, both beautiful and ornamental, with the best wishes of the guests for the continued happiness of the newly-weds.

A tempting luncheon was served and all present report an unusually delightful evening.

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

We all know the chronic borrower. She thinks nothing of asking for the loan of your most cherished party frock, or of your tea set or even a portion of your pay envelope.

She breezes in quite casually, takes it for granted that you will oblige her, and you usually do, for a few times, at least, and breezes out again. Perhaps she returns your frock with a bit of the lace torn, or a spot on the front. Perhaps the tea set comes back minus one cup. Perhaps you don't see her again for a long time after you handed her the ten.

When she doesn't need anything, you aren't apt to see her often, but you can depend upon her coming back into your life with a smile when she needs something from you.

Chronic borrowers seem to get through life very easily because they have no scruples about asking others to share their burdens. But things get harder for them as they go along.

We are glad to oblige others, until we feel we are being imposed upon. Then we make excuses, or we refuse their requests, depending upon the way in which we meet our problems.

And when the chronic borrower needs help the most, she may find she has exhausted the indulgence of all her friends. And she has to get through the ordeal alone.

If you are a borrower, make it a point to correct that weakness in your character, for it is weakness. You borrow because you didn't look ahead and foresee your needs. You didn't plan. Instead of allowing yourself to borrow, punish yourself by doing without.

There are few persons who are capable of such friendship that it will not be sapped by constant borrowings.

Did you ever borrow money from a friend and find yourself unable to repay it for a while? You find yourself hating to meet her. You think she is thinking about the money you owe her. Probably she isn't, but you are just as uncomfortable as if she were. You fancy she feels differently toward you. Then you pay back the money, regain your feeling of self-importance in her eyes, and all the "edgy" feeling is gone.

You know that it was merely your inferiority complex asserting itself. You felt inferior because you allowed yourself to be in debt to her. When you are straight again, that feeling disappears. She didn't make you feel that way; your own self-respect did.

None of us escapes difficulties and complications where we have to call upon a friend for help.

But borrowing should be the last resort, not the first. And by borrowing only when there is no other way out, we can keep these demands so infrequent that we do not jeopardize our social credit or overdraw on our friendship account.

THE NEWEST HATS ARE NOT ALL MADE OF ONE MATERIAL, BUT OF SECTIONS OF DIFFERENT COLORS AND FABRICS, AND THEY ARE VERY PLEASANT TO LOOK AT. ON THIS HAT, CARRIED OUT IN ALL BLACK, THERE IS TO BE FOUND BLACK SATIN, BLACK VELVET AND BLACK MOIRE.

There's no doubt about it, bangs are becoming more fashionable by the hour. Here is a style of hairdressing that is popular for both the straight and the bobbed head. Certainly there are some foreheads that should not be exposed and are better for a bang.

gular and fluttering line are very much in evidence at smart functions.

Beaded Fringe Seen.
Fringe of white pearl beads is liked not only for delicate frocks, but for those of lead pencil blue, lipstick red and black.

The tongue is divided into three regions of taste, the first of which is chiefly sensitive to pungent tastes, the middle portion to sweets or hitters, while the back part is confined to flavors of roasted meats, butter, oil and fatty substances.

William J. Bryan was uniformly praised in editorial comments following his death. Throughout his public career the causes he espoused, at the time he espoused them, subjected him more or less to ridicule. The newspaper "paraphraser" found him a convenient as well as an interesting personage. All of this quickly can be set aside when sorrow comes. Weekly magazines of humor, which were partly printed, found themselves in an uncomfortable position this week, with their echoes from Dayton trial. Numerous publications were revised.

Not all men who have been as prominent in public life and active in leadership have received the uniform praise that was accorded him. Some men of his own time so alienated a large part of the public that even death failed to wipe out the stings of their lives. Newspapers did not dare pass over what had been done lest their attitude should appear to condone or minimize the offenses.

It does not appear to be so in the event of Bryan's death. Ridicule has turned to praise. If he had engendered bitterness in party strife, time and age had softened the tempers.

Following are typical comments concerning Bryan: Springfield Register: With tongue and pen to the last he bore witness to the faith that was in him and spread abroad the gospel of peace and salvation among the people. But he was a militant Christian, a true soldier of the cross. To him the sneers of the skeptic and the copiestries of the agnostic were a challenge that found him armed the equipped for battle with the "whole armor of God"; the cincture of truth, the "breastplate of righteousness," the shoes of the "gospel of peace," the "shield of faith," the "helmet of salvation" and the "sword of the spirit."

Bloomington Pantagraph: Giving him credit for magnetic personality, for energy, for great vigor, and for unusual mental ability, the country will pay its tribute to William Jennings Bryan as a great American, an orator of outstanding caliber, and a Christian gentleman of courage and sincerity.

Aurora Beacon-News: Those who disagreed with his theories of politics were compelled to respect his wonderful natural ability, his faith in his own views and his battling courage. They admired him as a patriotic and God-fearing citizen who, against any odds would bravely and ably stand his ground. The name of William Jennings Bryan will have its place in history. He loved his fellowman and was himself loved by men.

Rockford Register-Gazette: Always "the commoner" has been of a wholesomeness of character that many men covet and the world at heart admires. Therein he found an enviable place in the affections of the public, irrespective of party. There was something of the apostle and crusader in him. His faith in the things of the Spirit was superb. The bible had for him a tremendous vital meaning in the beauty and strength of its messages, which he accepted unreservedly. He preached an earnest confidence in God.

Decatur Review: In public life, as a campaigner, on the lecture platform, in the public press, William Jennings Bryan was always fighting the cause of the people. He was the Great Commoner, the Great Democrat, the Great Crusader. And it is safe to say that his greatness will long be felt in his beloved native land.

Monmouth Review: No man ever lived to which public favor was sweeter, but the story of his life reveals no occasion when he sacrificed a single atom of his personal conviction or belief. That, in death as well as in life, is the great commoner's crown of glory.

Marshalltown, (Ia.) Times-Republican: We shall miss Mr. Bryan. He has been a landmark for many years. As a type of solid American citizen his past two decades have established him as a type and an example. He was brave enough to maintain his position, useful enough to command a universal respect and democratically kind enough to win personal liking. A good man of a type of greatness has departed, but the assurance remains that his career is typical of the opportunity not denied to the commonest born child in this America of infinite opportunity.

RAILWAY MEN DRIVE AUTO.

"If the officials of a railroad company travel by automobile from Chicago to Decatur for a conference about discontinuing local passenger trains, it may be taken as positive proof that people nowadays simply will not ride on a train if they can avoid it," says the Decatur Review, commenting upon the manner in which Illinois Central officials came into the city.

In that manner the automobile has engulfed the whole transportation system. Railway men do not ride their own trains. Street railway men do not ride their own street cars.

Interviewed on the question of whether or not the Illinois Central railway would enter the field of interurban bus transportation, the superintendent indicated that in his opinion even the bus can not stand against the competition of the individually owned "bus."

Millions of dollars are being invested in busses by other railroads, but the "Old Reliable" is going to let the others do the experimenting.

"The private automobile will ruin the bus business just as it has killed local traffic on railroads," said the railroad man. "We are of the opinion that if people will not ride trains, they will not ride busses."

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL.

Hawaii, like California, has a season when it is at its best absolutely, and another when it seems best by contrast.

When you come in January out of the frozen east into blooming California, the contrast is overwhelming. But to the resident, California is then not at its best, but at its worst.

Merely the difference between its best and its worst is so much less than that of the colder zones. But if you would see California at its absolute best, come when the east is also at its best, or, perhaps a month earlier.

The contrast is not so great, for the east is blooming and beautiful then, too; but, omitting comparisons, California's beauty is then supreme.

So with Hawaii. The greatest contrast is to come to this winterless land from a frozen northern winter. But the time to see tropical Hawaii at its uncomparable best is in the summer, when most of America is also tropical.

Just now, the ponciana regala us blooming at its best—great trees, all one mass of vivid scarlet—the "golden shower" and "pink shower" wave their masses of bloom, the hibiscus hedges, the fragrant plumerias or frangipannias, and the many-colored croton plants are at their best; the pineapple, alligator pears and many low-lying plants are in bloom. The climate is warm, but not oppressive, and the country supremely beautiful.

Do not hesitate to come to Hawaii in the summer, its most beautiful season.

A GOOD PLACE TO "PLAY AT TROPICS"

Hawaii is a good place to play at the tropics.

The real tropics are more luxurious, and, in photographs, more beautiful. Whether they are to you in the reality depends on how high the necessary price seems to your particular temperament.

The "price" in question is not money. Tropic jungles steam with humid heat and swarm with insect pests.

They lack most or all the conveniences of civilization, and their picturesque inhabitants are often ignorant of sanitary and other decencies.

All the odors of the spice islands are perfumes. If you can overlook these features, the far tropics are the most beautiful and interesting part of the world.

But Hawaii, fortunately, exacts none of these prices. It is civilized, clean, comfortable and tropical enough. Its many race population seems exotic enough, if you have just come from America.

If you have just come from the Orient, it seems very American; and if you have just come from the cannibal islands, it seems astonishingly metropolitan. It is all a matter of contrast.

WHERE RACIAL LINES ARE NOT DRAWN

A reception at "Washington Place," the official residence of Governor Farrington of Hawaii to the delegates to the Institute of Pacific Relations, presented a sight such as could be seen nowhere else in the world, and rarely on such a scale here.

The house, formerly the residence of Queen Liliuokalani during the 20 years from her deposition to her death, and with a long and conspicuous history in island life before that, has been enlarged into a spacious official residence, ample for any social gathering.

But this gathering—American, Hawaiian, Chinese, Japanese, Korean,

"We are looking for Puff's lost button," said Juggle Jump.

At last Juggle Jump and the Twins reached the Royal Palace in Tumble Town and asked to see the king.

"He is just sitting down to lunch," said the footman with a hop, skip and jump. "But just come into the dining room and he can talk to you while he is eating."

So six servants led the way all hopping first on one foot and then the other.

"What can I do for you, good people?" asked the king laying down his fork which slid clear across the wobbling table and fell to the floor with a clatter.

"We are looking for Puff's lost button," said Juggle Jump. "He's the Fairy Queen's cook and he got so fat from tasting that his last button flew off and bounced over the hill to this place. Did you see it?"

"No," said the king. "But if I'm not mistaken I see about six dozen buttons on your coat. Couldn't you spare him a few? But don't stand there. Come and sit down everybody and eat something."

As the chairs kept moving and the table kept moving and everything in the king's dining room kept moving, it was quite a time before the three of them managed to get themselves seated.

When the soup was brought it splashed so that it was hard to get a spoonful.

"Dear! Dear!" said the king finally. "It's very hot weather. Too hot for hot soup. It should be cold soup. Very cold soup! Cold soup that won't spill. I shall speak to the cook. Now tell me the story of your buttons, Mister Juggle Jump."

"Certainly, sir!" said Juggle Jump.

Filipino and British empire ladies and gentlemen, most of the Orientals in their native costumes—was unique.

They were, of course, most of them persons of the highest standing in their own countries, who would be welcome guests in the finest homes anywhere in the world; but wherever except in Hawaii could they have been assembled in such numbers with so little racial consciousness.

Hawaii was until recently the world example of racial non-exclusiveness. Social lines, among persons of equal standing otherwise, practically ignored race lines.

If that is no longer completely the case, in all circles, at least it could be so, unconsciously, and unobtrusively, in a company like this.

It was not strange, in fact, to one projecting himself for the moment to the outside view, the only thing strange about it was its lack of strangeness.

THE TANGLE

LETTER FROM SALLY AHERN TO LESLIE PRESCOTT CONTINUED

Leslie, when Dick voiced this terrible thought, he stopped, put his hand over his mouth, and turned paler than ever. I knew he felt that he was betraying his wife.

"Sally, the thought is killing me," he said as if in extenuation. "You know, however, that women do go insane after childbirth. Tell me what she said to you, Sally," he asked pathetically.

I could not tell him, and I asked in my turn: "Did Dick tell you, Dick, that she did not expect to get well?"

"Not in so many words, but she told me how to dispose of all her personal belongings if she did not recover. You can understand that even the idea of her thinking about such things would torture me, and I tried to stop her, but she wouldn't stop."

She said: "Dear Dick, I must tell you what is in my mind, but first I must make you understand that I feel as though my heart were dead. I do not seem to have much feeling any more."

"I took her in my arms, and my tears dropped on her face. She seemed surprised. 'What are you crying for?' she asked."

"Don't you know, dear?" I answered. "Wouldn't you cry if you thought I had no more feeling for you?"

"She smiled a little, and answered vaguely: 'I do not know, Dick—I do not know. But I do want you to understand—you and Sally and Leslie, for you would be the only ones in the whole world who would be interested in souvenirs of my life.'"

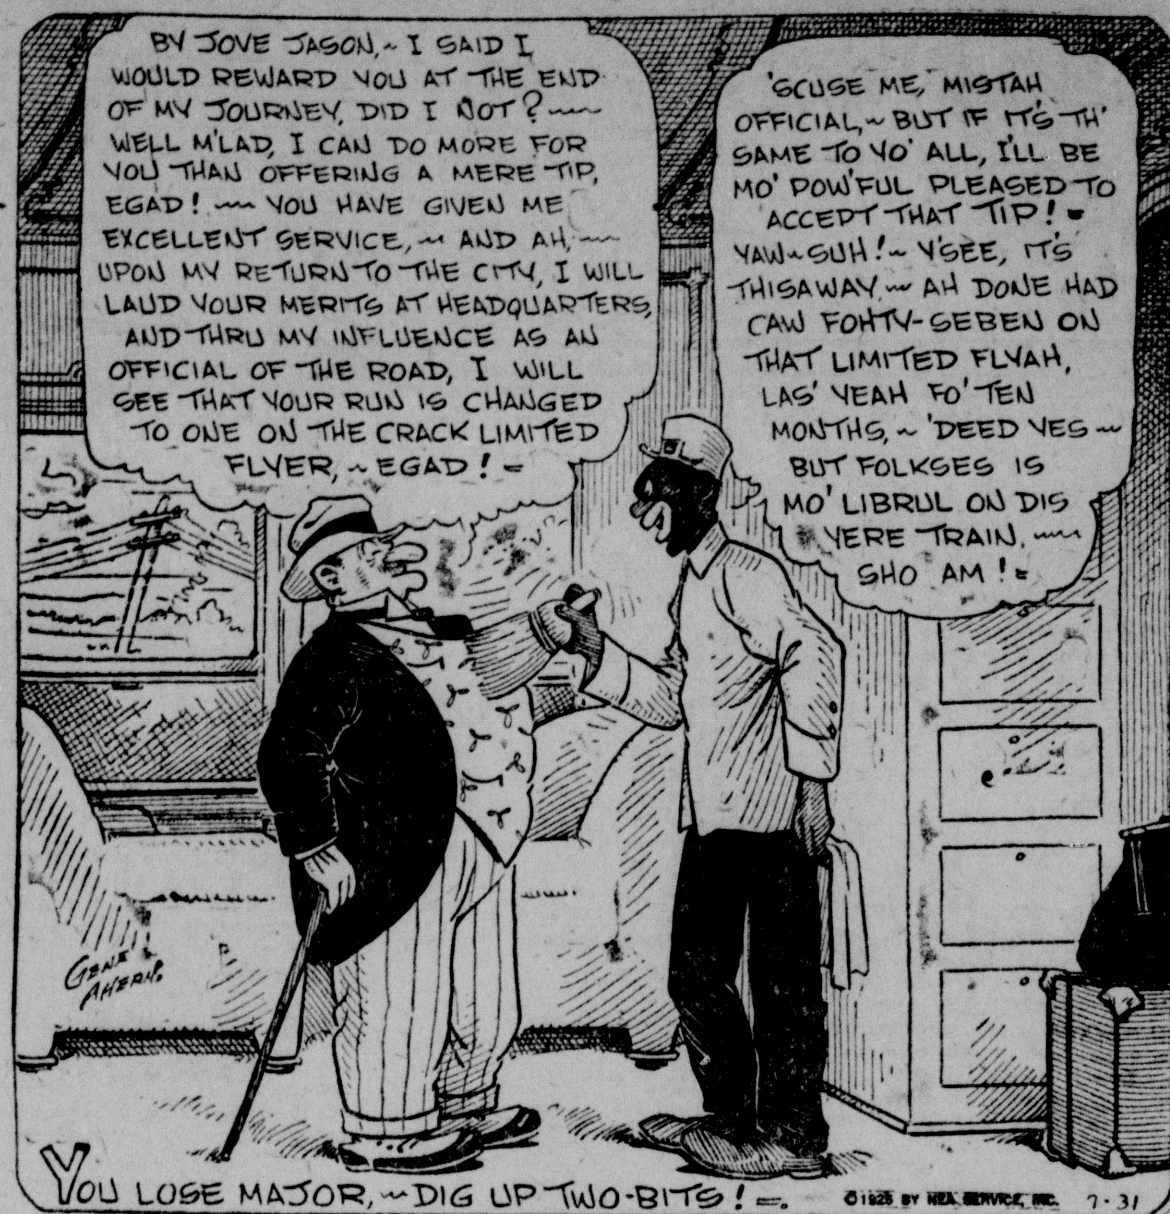

"But your baby, dear?" I expostulated. "Surely to your beautiful little girl you will be the greatest interest in life. Have you forgotten her?"

"Sally," he said, and his voice was something I never want to hear again; his pain and torture affected me almost the same as did the undimmed tone in which Dick had told me she was not going to live and was more than reconciled to the end."

"Sally," he repeated, "she told me that she was going to give the baby to someone who would take a great

Good Thoughts for Good People

Coupled with the desire to understand God is the longing for spiritual growth. Indeed, the two are inseparable. It may even be said that spiritual growth is directly proportional to one's understanding of God. If our prayer, then, be to know God better and for growth in grace, we can be certain that our reward will be an enlarged capacity to be patient, humble, loving and kind.

OLD SALEM, ONCE HOME OF LINCOLN, THRILLS DIXONITE

Jo. Supt. L. W. Miller Tells of Visit to Historic Town

(By L. W. MILLER.)

It was at Old Salem, near Petersburg, Ill., that Abraham Lincoln spent seven years of his life, from 1831 to 1835.

Old Salem Park, comprising approximately sixty acres of undulating land, much of it being native woodland, through which courses the narrow Sangamon River, is now the property of the State of Illinois. Here Lincoln clerked in a store, followed the avocation of surveyor, whipped the notorious Clary gang, became Captain in the Black Hawk War, studied law, was elected to the Illinois Legislature, and here he wooed and won the heart of Ann Rutledge, the daughter of the innkeeper. Here, too, Lincoln received the appellation—"Honest Abe," because of his scrupulous honesty in dealing with customers at the store.

Time Took Its Toll.

The visitor of today notes that until recent years, the ruthless hand of time had thoroughly and completely obliterated all traces of the once contented village. Through the instrumentality of the Old Salem Lincoln League, replicas of the principal log structures now stand on their original sites,—the old cooper shop alone being reconstructed of its original logs. This structure had been removed from Old Salem to Petersburg one and one-half miles away, only to be returned to its original site a few years ago. It was in this old cooper shop that Lincoln would often lie on the floor at night, reading and studying by the light of the burning shavings, sticks and logs. Other buildings restored are Rutledge Inn, where Lincoln boarded and courted Ann Rutledge; Offutt's store; Barry & Lincoln store; Hill & McNamara store; Herndon's store; Miller's blacksmith shop, and the residence of Dr. Allen, the village doctor. Markers indicate the location of other residence and industries.

New Museum Erected.

A new museum building, fireproof and modern, has been erected lately, by the state. In this building are housed many original relics connected with the life of Lincoln. Among these are the hand auger used by Lincoln to bore a hole through the bottom of the barge, to remove the water that has leaked through when the crude water craft, with its cargo bound for New Orleans, and with its nose protruding over the dam, had stalled there temporarily and was threatened with destruction. It was in this occasion that Lincoln first saw Ann Rutledge waving a spray of peach blossoms as the barge again floated intact below the dam. Here also is the side-saddle used by Ann Rutledge, while outside may be seen the old mill stones that rendered service in the early day.

The writer descended a long slope, crossed a small ravine, and ascended a sharp incline, making his way through the timber land with its dense undergrowth to the deserted cemetery of the early settlers here. There are a few tombstones, small in size, but most of the graves are marked. If at all, by small boulders, many of them smaller than a man's head. This is truly a sad spot.

Girl Kept Promise.

John McNeil, or James McNamara, as he afterward claimed himself to be, was one of the prosperous members of the village. He and Ann Rutledge were engaged to be married, when for reasons never made known he suddenly sold his property and interests, and left Old Salem, never to return. True to her promise, Ann waited long and faithfully for his return. Finally she gave Lincoln the promise to become his wife, but the wedding ceremony was never performed. She died of tuberculosis on August 25th, 1855, at the new farm home of her parents, located six miles west of Petersburg. Lincoln did not attend the funeral, but went alone into the wild recesses of the woods, where he remained for several days alone with his grief.

About a generation ago, the Old Salem Lincoln League, with permission, caused her remains to be removed to a beautiful, shaded knoll in Oakland cemetery, adjacent to Petersburg, the county seat of Menard county, Illinois.

The small boulder that had heretofore been the only marker of the grave now rests at the foot of her last resting place. Chiseled thereon is simply the name—"Ann Rutledge." Over the head of the grave is a massive boulder about five feet high, five feet wide, and two feet thick, evidently wrought by a master workman. This boulder bears an inscription by Edgar Lee Masters, and reads as follows:

Out of me unworthy and unknown
The vibrations of deathless music:
'With malice toward none, with charity for all,'
Out of me forgiveness of millions to ward millions.

And the beneficent face of a nation
Shining with justice and truth.
I am ANN RUTLEDGE who sleeps beneath these weeds.
Beloved of ABRAHAM LINCOLN
Wedded to him, not through union,
But through separation.
Bloom forever, O Republic
From the dust of my bosom.
January 7th, 1812.—August 25th, 1855.

OBITUARY

MELCHOIR S. STONER (Contributed)

Melchoir Snively Stoner was born in Franklin Co., Pennsylvania, March 22, 1865, the fourth in a family of five children of Henry and Margaret (Baltzley) Stoner. At the age of twenty-one he came to Lee County, Ill., and the 19th of February, 1890, he was married to Mary A. Depew. To them were born four children, three of whom are living: Miss Florence, of the I. N. U. office, Mrs. John R. (Harriet) More, living south east of Dixon, and Miss Marguerite at home. Mr. Stoner lived a thrifty, honest, energetic life, being counted among the successful farmers of the prosperous community in which he lived for many years, three miles south of Dixon. About six years ago he moved to town permanently, having previously had his residence here during the schooling of his children. Failing health came to him rather early in life, and for two years he suffered much from weakness and a general break-down, although with difficulty he was able to be about; so that his death came rather suddenly and unexpectedly, after being confined to the bed only three days. Wednesday morning at ten thirty o'clock, the earthly end came, when he was of the age of 60 years, 4 months and 7 days. He is also survived by a sister and two brothers: Mrs. Clara Carbaugh, Creston, Ohio; Edgar S. Marks, Penn. and Harry, Ashland, Ohio and two grandchildren: Robert Stoner Moore and Florence Louise Moore.

Only the last-named brother of the distant relatives can be present for the funeral.

Mr. Stoner was a member of the Dixon Methodist church and the Modern Woodmen of America. In the absence of his pastor, the Rev. Aubrey Shannon Moore, who is giving a course of lectures in an Ohio Institute the funeral services were conducted from the late home, 1007 S. Peoria Ave., at 2:30 o'clock, today, in charge of B. H. Cleaver, minister of the Dixon Christian church. Interment was in Oakwood cemetery.

MRS. ANNA E. BURHEN (Contributed)

Mrs. Anna E. Burhen was born June 9, 1836, in Heinbach, Germany. After four and one half days of suffering from heart trouble, she passed from this life Monday, July 27, 1925, at the advanced age of 89 years, 1 month and 18 days.

At the age of 18 years the deceased left her native country and came to the United States, locating at Baltimore, Md., where she remained four years. In March, 1858, she was united in marriage to J. P. Burhen and soon thereafter came with her husband to Franklin Grove, in which vicinity she resided until the death of her husband. Since then her home was with her only daughter, Mrs. Mary Shippert.

During the past several years the deceased suffered attacks of sickness from which it seemed improbable she would be able to recover, because of the disadvantage of her age. But her remarkable recuperative powers, aided by splendid care and nursing, brought her each time to comparative good health and the joy of living. Usefully employing her hands, as strength permitted, and finding grace and comfort in her bible and books of sermons, it was a delight and an inspiration to visit and talk to her. Until last Thursday morning she suffered an attack of heart trouble that proved too much for her powers of resistance, and on Monday at 12:30 P. M., her earthly pilgrimage came to an end, and her wish to be absent from the body and at home with the Father was realized.

She was baptized in infancy and at the age of 14 years was confirmed in the Lutheran Church in Germany. In this country she became a charter member of the Lutheran church in Franklin Grove, from which congregation her membership had never been removed. Since living with her daughter, she was worshipped at St. Paul's Nachusa.

In the passing of "grandma" Burhen, there has gone from our midst one who was widely known and greatly loved. She was possessed of a beautiful christian character. Her faith in its simplicity and its unquestioning confidence in her Heavenly Father seemed like that of a little child in its parents. The years of faith and prayer had refined away the coarser passions and ambitions found so forcefully in the full flow of life in the flesh. She had long been looking and hoping for release from this earthly tabernacle, desiring to enter the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. Her sympathies were broad and keen, and in times of need her ministrations and her help most kindly and practically effective. In all the relationships of her life she demonstrated the truth that the worth of a virtuous woman is above rubies. She also discovered, as said the wise man, that the woman who feareth the Lord shall have her need of praise, and that her works shall have worthwhile reward, being "profitable for the life that now is and for the life which is to come."

To the deceased and her husband were born two sons and a daughter: one son, J. P. Burhen, of Hoopesville, Ill., and the daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Shippert of Nachusa, Ill., survive their mother, who, together with nine grandchildren, twelve great grandchildren, one foster grandchild and a large number of other relatives, neighbors and friends, will rise up and call her blessed and mourn her going hence, though assured that their loss is her gain. To the God of love and mercy, whom she trusted and who guided her in this life, we commend her soul, and you who mourn for comfort and consolation.

Until last Thursday morning she suffered an attack of heart trouble that

The funeral was held in the Lutheran church at Nachusa on Wednesday of this week at 2:30 p. m., with interment in the Franklin Grove cemetery. Rev. D. P. Heitzel, pastor of the Nachusa church, had charge of the service.

LOONEY IS "GUILTY"
JURY SAYS TODAY
AFTER LONG TRIAL

Rock Island's vice war of three years ago resulted, said prosecuting attorneys, from one of the most perfect conspiracies ever organized. The state charged that John P. Looney was the interconnector for the underworld and the police, and that he profited at every turn in the situation.

Through his paper, The Rock Island News, the state asserted, Looney clubbed the underworld and the police into submission by threats of publicity. According to State Senator Jas. J. Harbore, who acted as special prosecutor, and Assistant Attorney General Hadley, who represented the attorney general in the prosecutions, Looney collected monthly tribute from a large number of disorderly houses, saloons and gambling houses.

Was Fast Fighter.
As a young man in Rock Island, Looney was known as a criminal lawyer and as a fast fighter of ability. Gradually he prospered and became the owner of a daily newspaper known as The Rock Island News. Many of his battles in the early days came as a result of this paper, for he printed nothing but local news and much of it was described of a scandalous nature, attacking resorts or prominent citizens for alleged moral lapses. He and another editor once fought a duel with pistols on one of the principal streets of the city, but neither was injured. On another occasion an enraged jeweler, whose sister had died, he said, after an attack on her in the Rock Island News, wrenched a pistol from Looney, who failed in his efforts to discharge it because he did not release the safety catch. The News finally became a weekly.

The troubles known as the Rock Island vice war were charged in a great part to prohibition, although a long series of personal animosities figured in the proceedings. Government investigators succeeded in obtaining a number of cancelled checks from William Gabel, a saloonkeeper, shortly before the situation became acute. The checks were payable to Louis Ortel, alleged to have been a wholesale bootlegger who worked with Looney. Looney's name appeared on the back of some of these. Shortly after the checks were turned over, Gabel was shot to death.

Start Clean-up Campaign.
This brought the situation to the surface and The Rock Island Argus, aided by other tri-city papers, launched a clean-up campaign. At about the same time, rivals in the underworld disagreed and a number of citizens organized a committee to clean up the city. The war was in reality a three cornered affair with the citizens and part of the underworld opposing Looney and his friends. The climax came October 6, 1922, when Looney and his son, John Connor Looney, were fired on from several automobiles as they sat in their car in front of a hotel. The elder Looney escaped through the hotel, but his son knelt on the sidewalk to return the fire and was killed.

Looney disappeared shortly after this shooting and an extensive investigation was carried on which resulted in a number of indictments. Lawrence Pedigo, said to have been a lieutenant of Looney, Tom Cox, former chief of police, and Harry Schriber, former mayor, were convicted of conspiracy to protect gambling. The supreme court reversed the case. Cox later died. Looney was in this indictment, but was not tried as he was at the time a fugitive. John K. Scott, former city attorney, also was named in the indictment, but confessed and paid a $2,000 fine.

The investigation also resulted in the conviction of Anthony Billburg, George Holsapple, Dan Drost and George Buckley for the murder of John Connor Looney. Billburg received a 20-year sentence and the others fourteen-year sentences. They were alleged to have been underworld rivals of Looney.

Found in New Mexico.
In the meantime, Looney was located in New Mexico, but county authorities were unable to return him for trial on 11 indictments against him. He was arrested on a federal warrant charging interstate transportation of a stolen automobile, however, and later when he came to Peoria to answer this charge, he was taken to Rock Island and arraigned on the indictments. He was charged among other things with the murder of Gabel, and with conspiracy to murder.

A week was consumed in selecting a jury to try him on the first indictment, the conspiracy to protect gambling charges. This indictment charged that Looney installed a number of punch boards and that he protected slot machines. Although it was one of the minor indictments it was considered important in that the conspiracy charge admitted a wide range of evidence and might show how strong was the state's case in all of the indictments.

The defense sought to show that Looney was absent from Rock Island most of the time in which he is alleged to have been a conspirator and that he was not in charge of the Rock Island News during the time in question. It also sought to show that Cy Hazlett, alleged to have been one of his lieutenants, Pedigo, and others were the actual conspirators, and that the defendants had nothing to do with the crimes charged against him.

Gun Found on Looney.
Looney, during Mr. Hadley's opening remarks, produced the first sensation of the trial, when he charged across the court room at the prosecutor shouting, "Liar—Do what you please with me, but leave my child alone." Hadley had just referred to the part Looney's son was said to have taken in the conspiracy. A few moments later, Looney was searched and a .45 calibre revolver taken from him. Thereafter he was searched at the opening of every session of the court.

Lawrence Pedigo, the state's star witness, made statements on the stand substantiating many of the state's charges and in several instances gave testimony directly linking Looney with the collection of profits from the punch boards and with the protection of resorts. Pedigo contradicted many statements which he made at his own trial and when Looney attempted to turn the witnesses former testimony against him, Pedigo admitted perjury at his own trial, and added that he had done it on the advice of W. C. Allen, who defended Pedigo and who later acted as counsel for Looney. Looney, a disbarred lawyer, conducted a large part of his own defense, and spent five days in cross examining Pedigo, without succeeding in making the witness contradict any part of his testimony against the defendant.

Negro Slayer of Chief of Police Given Life
Cairo, Ill., July 30—(AP)—John Spruer, the negro who shot and killed Marshall Bagby, chief of police of Mounds, Ill., last Thursday, was sentenced to the penitentiary for life by Judge A. E. Somers at Mound City, Illinois, Wednesday afternoon.

Court had to be held in jail as Spruer's leg was broken by a bullet fired by the officer he killed. Sentence was passed immediately after the negro pleaded guilty.

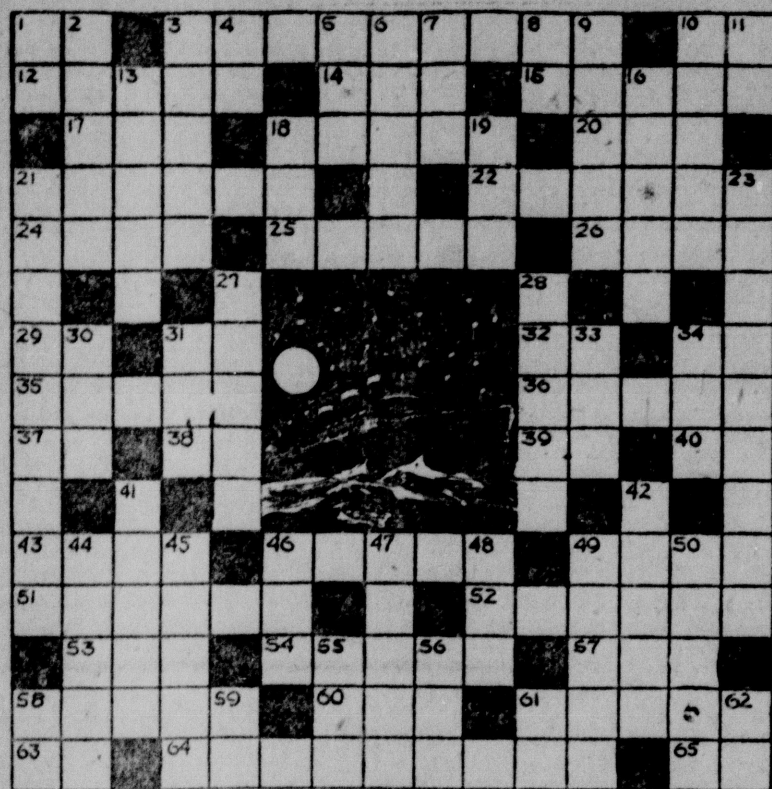

KNEW HIS WIFE
Jones was a chemist, and when his wife ran away with another man he inserted the following advertisement in the local paper:

"This is to notify the party who so kindly relieved me of my wife that I can supply him with liniments, bandages, arnica, healing salves, absorbent cotton, iodine, sleeping powders and crutches at rock bottom prices."

WHY IS A DETECTIVE.
Sagerton, Eng.—A detective on the lookout for pick pockets at the races here almost lost his wallet to one of the men he was hunting. A constable saw the pickpocket's hand in the detective's coat and arrested the thief.

BULLETIN
Aurora, Ill., July 31—(AP)—Today's Grand Circuit racing program at Exposition park, including the $25,000 American trotting derby, was called off because of a wet track and rain. The derby will be raced next Thursday. All of today's races, with the exception of the derby, will be on tomorrow's program.

Aurora, Ill., July 31—(AP)—Bonnie Watts, brown horse by General Watts, owned by Jacob Weinberg, of Chicago, and driven by Marvin Childs, won three races on Thursday's Grand Circuit program at Exposition park. Starting in the 2:17 pace class he won the first event, a four furlong dash, in 1:00.2-3 the second at a mile and one eighth, in 2:27.5 and the third, a 5 furlong dash, in 1:31.2-5. Mag Abbe, owned and driven by Tommy Murphy of Syracuse, N. Y., was second to the Chicago pacer in the last two races, but did not start in the four furlongs event.

Phil O'Neil, a bay gelding by The Philistine-Vera Marie, owned by James P. Berry, of Hartford, Conn., and driven by F. Crozier, won both races in the 2:05 pacing class. In the first race, a six furlong dash, the sulky of Peter Giron, the favorite, became locked with that of Buddy Mack. In the mixup, C. Valente, driver of the latter, was thrown, but was not injured. Peter Green, but was drawn after the accident, but Buddy Mack came back and took second money in the 1:18 miles race.

Honors in the 2:15 trotting class were divided by Top O' The Morning, a brown mare by Belwin-Antle Russell, owned by J. C. Nichols, of Sheboygan, Wis., winner of the six furlong dash, and Dr. Strongworthy, grey gelding, of Orton, Axworthy, driven by the Tommy Murphy stable, winner of the 1:18 mile race. The Murphy stable broke badly in the stretch in the short race or would have won both.

Johnny Mostil, speedy fly chaser of the White Sox, made four hits including two doubles in four times at bat. His hitting so inspired his teammates that they all hit one or more blows for 18 safeties.

"Lightning" Shelly, of the White Sox, one of the slowest base runners in the major leagues, stole a base in the game against the world champions.

Holls Thurston, White Sox twirler, got back to a winning stride yesterday. He was touched for ten hits but he pitched wonderful ball in the pinches. His teammates also gave him great support when the Senators threatened, three sparkling double plays breaking up budding rallies.

"Gaby" Hartnett of the Cubs is making a strong bid to catch up with Rogers Hornsby for the home run honors. He slammed out his 24th circuit drive with a tremendous wall hop which cleared the wall in left field and bounded out on the street.

Babe Penille and Walter Hol led the attack for the Reds against the Phillies with three blows each.

The Braves, smarting under three defeats at the hands of the Pirates, went out for revenge, and with eleven hits including a double, three triples and a homer by Burns, piled up enough runs to beat the league leaders.

The New York Yanks won their third game in a row for the first time. Fourteen times they have gone two straight and then fallen down.

Sam Gray won his tenth victory and his fourth shutout for the Athletics.

Frankie Welch of the Athletics had an unusual record. He stepped to the plate five times and was not charged with a single time at bat. He sacrificed twice and got free transportation to first on his other three times up.

Jack Fournier, Dodgers first baseman, who had hit safely in 17 consecutive games, was unable to touch Reinhart, who checked the big Frenchman's hitting streak.

Infielder Connolly of the Red Sox has been sent to the Mobile Southern Association club, under option. He will return to Boston at the close of the season.

Rheumatic Pains Go Swollen Joints Vanish

Twisted, swollen, unsightly joints are rapidly freed from pain and brought back to normal with Rheuma. Lame people walk without aid; sleep comes to those who have been unable to lie in bed; hands that were helpless because of terrible rheumatism are now able to do their share for the support of the family.

Rheuma is a wonderful remedy for rheumatism, gout, neuritis, lumbago, and neuralgia.

It is a wonder worker; it never fails, never gives up until every vestige of poison is expelled from the body.

Rheuma acts on stomach, liver, kidneys and bladder all at once and quickly brings long prayed for comfort to distressed sufferers. Rowland's pharmacy, Dixon, and Rochelle, and all good druggists sell it with guarantee of money back if it isn't satisfactory.

RUNNERS-UP SHOW
FIGHT AND CLIMB
UP ON CONTENDERSWhite Sox and Cincinnati
Out to Overtake the League's Leaders

New York, July 31—(AP)—Third place teams are perking up in the major leagues, Cincinnati in the National and Chicago in the American, and as the result of spurts have a good chance to break up two team fights for the flags.

Scoring a clean sweep in their Philadelphia series for the sixth straight victory, 6-2, the Reds bore down on the Pirates and Giants in the senior league while making their own lead in 51-2 games ahead of Chicago which has just won three victories in four starts.

Five and one half games from second place, the Reds, who have been playing good and had baseball, receive Boston in Cincinnati today with hope of getting into the thick of the pennant hunt.

Having fenced off Detroit and St. Louis after a close fight for third place, the White Sox today are after another victory over the champion Senators. Washington, which has been struggling with Philadelphia for the lead, is 51-2 games ahead of Chicago which has just won three victories in four starts.

Sox Stop Covelace
The Sox yesterday knocked Covelace from the box and smashed his 13 game winning streak with a cluster of 18 safeties, to win 11-1.

Meanwhile the Athletics hammered Whitehill out of the game and beat the Tigers 3-0, with Gray pitching.

The Yanks after 14 unsuccessful attempts, finally established a three game winning streak by trouncing the Indians, 9-2.

Cleveland kept pace with the Yanks by making it three straight over the Red Sox, 7-2. Backeye in addition to brilliant pitching, turned in a home run.

The Giants cut Pittsburgh's lead to a game and a half as Hank Gowdy, veteran catcher, rose with a mighty stick to dispute rumors that valuers have been asked on him by the Giants. Hank's homer and sacrifice fly scored three of the Giants runs in a narrow squeak over the Cubs, 4-2.

Pittsburgh made the New York club possibly by tossing out a game to the tall end Braves, 5-1, Genewick holding the leaders safe all the way.

St. Louis tumbled Brooklyn in a pitching duel between Reinhart and Luebel, 5-2.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Says Druggists

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications causes the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barbers' itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you.

The WELL DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligations Of Every Season

White Golf Hose

It is the history of fashion that any fashion ceases to be fashionable just as soon as it becomes too fashionable. Style is a steady succession of dropping what everybody picks up and, then, picking up what everybody drops. A time is killed when all while it; a mode is killed when all wear it. This only applies to style which changes season by season. It is not true of correct dress that is, what to wear and when and where to wear it, the rules of which are just as fixed to-day as they were twenty-five years ago. The level-headed man, who must keep within a set expenditure for his clothes, follows style, but does not chase it. He acquires the best. He knows that intrinsic worth must command its cost. He realizes that the important thing is not the sum you pay but the something you get. He makes becomingness to the wearer, not mere fashion, his chief consideration in choosing clothes. He shuns fads and follies which are as impermanent as dandelion fluff.

When golf stopped being "the rich man's game" and became the sport of the middle-class many, golf stockings broke into all the hues of the rainbow. The most startling, even staggering, colors and patterns were adopted in the belief that these elaborate effects could not be reproduced in moderate-cost hosiery and that, thus, exclusiveness could be maintained. It could not. Virtually all the intricate designs brought out in the most expensive Scotch stockings are now procurable in the domestic article.

Therefore, the sort of chap you would almost "rather be dead than not be different" has gone to the opposite extreme and taken up the simplest color of all—plain white. Such stockings, as illustrated here, come with solid-color legs and decorative tops in brightly contrasting colors, including striped, plaid, mosaic, diamond, zigzag, dice and Maltese cross effects which are doubly engaging and effective by virtue of the studied plainness of the white below.

White golf hosiery goes particularly well with knickers of white linen, flannel, duck, gabardine, twill, corduroy, whip cord and the like. The jacket should be dark-colored and the shoes may be black-and-white or brown-and-white buckskin with calfskin trimmings. Such stockings are plain or have wide or narrow ribs, as preferred. They may be footless for men who cannot put on wool with comfort. They may also be obtained without turn-over tops, when full "plus-four" knickers are worn, as they still are by some golfers.

The RED RAIN MYSTERY

by HEADON HILL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SAMUEL HONEYBUN, his son John and his wife, a chauffeur, were the victims of a murder. Adrian KLYNE, LATHROP, a detective, has obtained evidence from Wilmet. Wilmet revenges himself by imprisoning—

ADELA LARKIN, sweetheart of Klyne. He forces Adela to write a love letter to Klyne. Klyne escapes the trap and calls upon Adela's father, Rev. Septimus Larklin. Rev. Larklin deciphers a code in the letter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

ONCE again the Rector bent his disordered head over the flimsy sheet. Presently he looked up with a ghost of a sickly smile.

"I have got it," he said. "No credit to me, since my daughter and I have communicated by the same method. She has underlined the most important words, which in the text are not in juxtaposition. They are 'don't' and 'come,' meaning, no doubt, that you are to disregard the openly expressed request to seek her on Hangman's Heath. But there is a further message, indicated by faulty characters, also at considerable intervals, in the writing. It reads 'Gravel Pit Rectory.'"

"Gravel Pit Rectory," repeated the other. "Rather cryptic, isn't it?"

"Not to me," replied Mr. Larkin. "I expect she is alluding to a disused gravel pit behind the kitchen garden wall. There is an old shed in it, where she might very well be kept a prisoner."

"Show me the way at once," said the visitor. "My call on you, sir, has been a dispensation of Providence. Your interpretation of that message, if I can work it, shall atone for your previous conduct in this difficult case."

The Rector led the way to the front door, opened it and was confronted by Inspector Roake and three of his men.

"The landlord told me where to find you. What's up, my lord?" the Inspector inquired of his volunteer assistant.

"Plenty," was the curt reply. "The accessory of whom I spoke to you over the phone, and from whom I obtained a statement about the Lathrop murder, is holding Mr. Larkin's daughter prisoner in a gravel pit close by, threatening her with the worst sort of frightfulness. She has managed to get word to me, and we are just going to rescue her. Will you come along? The statement and the evidence I can supply, will justify an arrest."

"Of course we will come along," snapped Roake. He was not too well pleased, since the chase seemed to be leading him farther and farther from his marked-down quarry, but he drew consolation from "his lordship's" promise that his should be the credit. And there was still the chance that this wild story of an accessory and a captured maiden was all bunkum. If it proved so, the night was still young. Lathrop Grange could be combed out after the ground had been cleared of fancy trimmings.

Flashed by Mr. Larkin, the party came to the door in the kitchen garden wall, the moonlight showing up the shelter in the gravel-pit beyond the waste space.

As they peered at the decrepit structure from the open doorway a scream rose from behind the rotting woodwork—the scream of a lost soul in mortal agony.

"Not much girl about that!" exclaimed Roake, plunging forward. "That is a man being done in. Come on! Rush to it!"

"Adela must have scored again."

muttered the Rector's late visitor as he joined in the rush.

When Mr. James Honeybun, marching across the waste ground to the gravel-pit, heard a woman sobbing in the shelter, he started to run. He was not wholly bad. There was indeed a vein of sentiment in his character which had impelled him to the lawless deed he had such reason to deplore. Anyhow, a woman who had caused to sob like that should not appeal to him in vain.

The interior of the shed was dark. The fumes of oil telling him that a lamp had been recently overturned but he had an electric torch on him with which he quickly sprayed the scene. Literally fighting tooth and nail, Adela was struggling in the clutch of the man Honeybun had come to kill. With no thought of his vengeance, but only of rescue, the new arrival flung himself on the would-be ravisher and dragged him from his prey. The torch fell from his hand, but the light not having been switched off, it continued to illuminate the scene from where it had rolled.

Adela staggered to her feet, only to collapse in a faint against the wall of the shelter, and it was well that she was gone too far to visual ize what was happening. The lust of blood ruled both combatants. One was backed of his desires, the other had found the traitor he was looking for. The fight, or rather, carnage, on the ground was bestial in its violence, but the issue was not long in doubt. Wilmet was the stronger and soon gained the mastery. His curving fingers, more like predatory talons, began to choke the life out of Mr. James Honeybun.

The latter never had a look in. The bear's hug of his adversary prevented him from drawing the pistol he had brought. His eyes bulged and his cheeks grew purple under the pressure on his throat. His legs failed helplessly on the ground and his breath labored in heaving gusts from nearly impotent lungs.

Such was the situation upon which the C. I. D. men, headed by Roake, burst like a whirlwind. Things
